

Institute for Excellence in Corporate Governance

Overview

The Institute for Excellence in Corporate Governance is a membership-based organization housed within The Naveen Jindal School of Management at the University of Texas at Dallas. The Institute focuses on the good governance of public and private companies as well as nonprofits. It strives to add value to top-level executives, current and prospective board members, investors and stakeholders through thought leadership and connecting people.

Engage

- The Institute for Excellence in Corporate Governance offers a series of speakers on trending corporate governance topics via breakfast programs throughout the year and at an annual conference.
- The Institute hosts member roundtables, providing additional member networking and peer feedback on resumes and/or board bios.
- The Institute maintains a member database of skillsets to assist with fulfilling potential new board opportunities.
- An annual membership includes all of the above for $495. Some programs are also available a la carte.
- For more targeted education, the Institute offers an Executive Certificate in Nonprofit Governance Program each spring and fall, and plans are currently underway to offer a Cybersecurity Governance Certificate Program.

Vision

The Institute will be the go-to governance group for corporate management, boards and stakeholders

Mission

The Institute connects the dots for management, board members and stakeholders; helps build better management / boards / stakeholder systems; and offers thought leadership to Institute members and the corporate governance community
